

Code of Conduct

Nexus Technologies, Inc.
Effective Date: January 1, 2026

1. Our Commitment

Nexus Technologies is committed to ethical behavior, mutual respect, and compliance with applicable laws. Every employee shares responsibility for upholding this Code.

2. Respectful Workplace

- Harassment, discrimination, retaliation, and bullying are prohibited.
- Report concerns to HR, your manager, or the EthicsLine hotline.
- Managers must acknowledge reports within 24 hours and escalate to HR the same business day.

3. Conflicts of Interest

Employees must disclose financial interests, outside employment, or gifts that could influence business decisions. Use the annual disclosure form in the HR portal.

4. Confidentiality and Data Protection

Protect customer data, source code, and personnel records. Follow Information Security policies for device encryption and access controls.

5. Reporting and Non-Retaliation

- EthicsLine: 1-800-555-0199 (24/7, anonymous where permitted by law).
- HR intake: hr@nexustech.example within one business day for urgent matters.
- Retaliation against good-faith reporters is a terminable offense.

6. Consequences

Violations may result in coaching, written warning, suspension, or termination depending on severity and recurrence.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR

Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR

Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on whistleblower protections: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on investigation process: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on anti-bribery: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on insider trading: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

Additional guidance on vendor relations: Employees should consult their manager and HR Business Partner when questions arise. This section reinforces consistent application of company standards, documentation requirements, and escalation paths. Managers are responsible for fair enforcement, timely communication, and referring complex situations to HR within one business day.

